I realize that all I need is the portion of the symbolic link to work. A sample scenario (where $_ is the active/working directory): $l_location = "D:\l_location" $l_link = 'd:\l_location' What I want to do is be able to dynamically associate a directory with the symbolic link. I know that this is possible through the use of mklink, but I'd like to avoid the more complex processes. In this specific example, I'd like to be able to do something like: $temp_location = md 'D:\temp' $temp_link = md 'd:\temp' mklink $temp_link, $l_link # => "D:\l_location\d:\temp" Is there an easy way to do this, or should I learn the complexities of mklink, or is there another standard method? A: Create a symlink using the link_path option of symlink(), then use realpath() and expand the path to get the final directory name: $tmp_location = mkdir D:\tmp $link_path = 'c:\tmp\link_location' symlink(realpath(link_path), realpath(expand('$tmp_location$link_path'))) See also the MDT_SYMLINK_PATH environment variable, which allows you to use symlink() with a single string argument.
